Applications and admissions

Limited enrolment programme with admission test (Cent-S, CISIA Test OnLine, www.cisiaonline.it/).

For information: www.unimi.it – INFORMAZIONI PER FUTURI STUDENTI.

In order to be admitted to the Bachelor's Programme in International Politics, Law and Economics, prospective students must hold an upper secondary school diploma or equivalent qualification obtained abroad after at least 12 years of schooling, and possess an adequate educational background. Indeed, some basic skills are required in the two following areas: Reasoning on texts and data and Mathematics. These skills are essential to the fruitful participation in this programme, as is a sound knowledge of English (level B2 of the European reference framework).

OFA – Obblighi formativi aggiuntivi (further training requirements)

General OFA

The admission test will serve as a basis for both the selection of candidates and the assessment of their skills in the abovementioned two areas (Reasoning on texts and data and Mathematics).

Students admitted with a score lower than the minimum in the areas set by the call for applications, will be assigned further training requirements (s.c. OFA, Obblighi Formativi Aggiuntivi). This means that they will have to attend courses/workshops or consult supplementary materials and pass another test within their first year in the programme. If they fail to do so, they will not be allowed to take second- and/or third-year exams. Further information on these OFA are available online on the website of the Faculty of Political, Economic and Social Sciences, area Studying.

English OFA

Knowledge of English at a B2 level (at least) may be certified as follows:

- through a language certificate, earned within three years prior to the date of submission, at a B2 level or higher. For the list of language certificates recognised by the University, please review: <https://www.unimi.it/en/node/297/>. The certificate must be uploaded during the enrolment procedure, or subsequently to the portal <http://studente.unimi.it/uploadCertificazioniLingue>;
- through a secondary school diploma with English as teaching Language. The diploma must be uploaded during the enrolment procedure;
- through a Placement Test, which is delivered by the University Language Centre (SLAM) during year I only, from October to December. Students who fail the test will be required to take a SLAM course. The Placement Test is mandatory for all students who do not hold a valid certificate, or a secondary school diploma with English as teaching language.

Students who do not sit the Placement Test by December, or who fail to pass the SLAM end-of-course test within six attempts, must obtain a paid certificate to be able to register for and sit any exam included in the degree programme.

Objectives

The Bachelor programme in International Politics, Law and Economics offers interdisciplinary education in political science, law, economics, history, and sociology, with a particular emphasis on the political, economic, and legal dimensions of the contemporary international context.

The international and comparative focus which characterises all the courses taught within this programme aims to enable students to understand and interpret today's global reality, while also allowing them to grasp and critically assess its complexities.

Furthermore, this Programme aims at providing graduates with a sound knowledge of English: students will be able to constantly practice it by attending lectures, actively participating in class (e.g. thanks to exercises and/or other written/oral activities), as well as taking written and oral exams in English.

Career prospects

The Bachelor's programme prepares graduates to find employment in the following areas: national and regional/local public administrations, including diplomatic missions to foreign countries or international institutions; international organisations; NGOs (e.g. those engaged in humanitarian volunteering activities); centres or associations specialised in the study and analysis of political, social, and economic processes; public and private (national or multinational) companies involved in international trade and finance; in the fields of services, cultural heritage, tourism, and communication.

International mobility

The Department responsible for the Bachelor's programme has exchange agreements under the Erasmus+ programme with several Universities in Europe as well as extra-European exchanges with Argentina (UNSAM), China (Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University, Peking University e Renmin University), Japan (Waseda University and Kobe University).

A double degree program is currently in place with Université de Pau et des Pays de l'Adour-UPPA. The double degree awards students a degree in International Politics, Law and Economics, issued from UNIMI and a degree in Droit, Économie, Gestion à l'International-DEGI', issued by UPPA.
